ANNOUNCEMENTS

AT THE AUDITORIUM. Coming Monday as Tuesday.

The public of Norwich is realizing the opportunity the Auditorium is giv-ing them to see the leading men and women in the theatrical profession in fie America by showing so many photo-plays taken directly from New York's two dellar productions, and also from widely read books and romantic novels, and the attendance is steadily in-creasing. The Paramount photo-plays shown at this house are truely and very noticeably different from the ordinary run of pictures that have al-ways been shown in Norwich. These particular features are taken by the photographers, have the bes ubjects, and introduce the best actors and actresses there are to be had. Any amount of money is spent on a production and the best possible results are obtained. "Rule G", a thrilling and exceptionally realistic photoplay is the main attraction at the Auditorium today, and on next Monday and Tuesday, Broadway's most precious diamond, Elsie Janis, will be seen in Campions of Kitty," with an all The Caprices of Kitty," with an all star cast. Miss Janis is very popular with theatregoers through the counwith theatregoers through the country, and has appeared in Norwich with a few years in two dollar productions. She has lately been starring with Montgomery and Stone in some of New York's best musical comedies.

Miss Janis is every bit as clever in tures as she is on the stage, with re elaborate, and beautiful back-ands to set off her piquant charms. animation and her spontaneity are primary factors of her attractive-then Miss Janis is an American who abandons herself to the joys youth, loves the out-of-doors, rides seback, swims, plays golf and as will see in "The Caprices of Kitcan even climb trees and drive ing cars. In several disguises Miss

POETRY

The race in both the major leagues
Is close as close can be.
There no er was such a strife before,
In baseball bistory.
There's not a team but has a chance
To win a bloomin' flag.
Uniess it be the Reds or Browns,
Who somehow seem to lag.
Each frantic fan, by day and night,
Pores o'er the baseball dope,
As if the records of the past,
Will bolster up his hope.
But while the players work and sweat,
And rooters loudly shout;
We cannot find one certain guy
Who used to be about.
We mean that gloomy, downcast, gent,
Who in the springtime said:
"The good old game has lost its punch,
in fact, is almost dead."
